

BLUE BERET

Highland Games at the UNPA

The mighty 3 Scots, currently in command in the British Contingent of Sector 2, brought their native highlands to the United Nations Protected Area on Saturday, 2 May, with the inaugural Highland Games. Under brilliant sunshine, a full day of cultural and sporting activities brought together all of UNFICYP's sectors and components, military, police and civilian, to enjoy the fun. Force Commander Major General Kristin Lund was on hand to announce the overall winner - no surprises that Sector 2 showed their prowess across all categories, and took out the big prize. There are troops and police from 20 countries serving under the UN flag in Cyprus - thank you to the 3 Scots for their contribution to the multinational spirit of UNFICYP!

BLUE BERET

www.facebook.com/UNFICYP
www.twitter.com/UN_Cyprus
www.unficy.org

