Countries Without Nuclear Weapons Support Peaceful Use Of Atom

In Geneva last week representatives of some 80 countries without nuclear weapons continued to examine ways of assuring their security, diminishing the nuclear threat, and promoting the peaceful use of the atom in a world overshadowed by the nuclear bomb.

Foreign Minister Brandt of West Germany said his country would seek prohibition of any aggression be it with nuclear, biological, chemical, or conventional weapons. The last category, he remarked could be used by a nuclear state against a non-nuclear one, as shown by recent events. Foreign Minister Medici of Italy said that the entrance of foreign troops into Czechoslovakia had violated one of the basic principles of this year's treaty designed to prevent further spread of nuclear weapons and provide security assurances to nations foreign to them. Yugoslavia's Assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Becvovski, said that the Non-Proliferation Treaty did not meet the needs of collective security and added that the intervention by force in the affairs of independent states was growing. Ambassador Vakil of Iran urged more explicit assurances that the nuclear nations would not use atomic weapons against non-nuclear nations.

Mr. Adnan Jaradi of Yemen stressed the need to ensure that the benefits of nuclear technology were made available to nations without atomic arms. South Africa's delegate, Mr. Roux, said that his country supported the Non-Proliferation Treaty but feared it might hamper economic development of non-nuclear-weapons states. The issue, he noted, was of particular importance to his country, which was one of the largest producers of uranium.

Representative of the Philippines Elected President

Mr. Gregorio Feliciano, Secretary of State for Social Welfare of the Philippines, was elected President of the UN Social Welfare Conference. He said it was significant that this honour had been entrusted to the representative of a developing country. Mr. Feliciano also felt it was appropriate that the conference was being held just before the world organization had embarked upon the second development decade.

Statements by Delegates

In statements made by the delegates from various parts of the world, an attempt was made to touch upon their countries' achievements and hopes for future progress in such fields as nutrition, housing, medical care, social security and other aspects of human well-being and development.

UN Social Welfare Council Opens

In opening the UN Social Welfare Conference at the UN Headquarters in New York last week, U Thant said that the equal representation of developing and industrialized countries demonstrated that the social welfare problems were a truly award-worthy concern. He added that the importance now given to the role of human resources in development could go a long way towards reconciling seemingly conflicting requirements of improved human well-being and economic growth. He observed that the most developed countries had started recognizing that the human factor was perhaps the most important element in sustained economic growth.

SECRET WEAPON

Near that the 10 Group are, like the Arabs, “holding their teeth” and preparing to move weekly, if not quietly, away — now, it can be revealed that amongst its reserves is, quietly hardened a secret weapon, a weapon with a punch — a heavyweight champion!

The role of reserve soldier Mick Collins for he is shy and reserved and bobs the shadows in the form and his success has brought him, in fact, to train his peers before finally running him to earth. And soon, when properly brought to earth, he will make light of his achieving the Irish Junior Heavyweight crown.

You see, 21 year old Mick is as long in the game that it all comes naturally to him. It all began over 14 years ago when he first climbed into the training quarters of Deansclough arms (Co. Kildare) boxing club. After eighteen months he tasted his first success by becoming Schoolboy Champion of Co. Kildare. The breakthrough of the month was from left Mick like a fish out of water and no one as it 1962 the same year that he enlisted, that he joined the Kildare Boxing Club. Glad to be back in what, in him, was his natural element, that season he was both the Carrowg and the All Army Novice titles.

The next year brought him both the Leinster and the All Army Junior titles. During the season 1966/67 he had to be content with running-up placings both in the Irish Junior Championships and the Tailtis Easter Ringside Series. But last year brought him his biggest success so far when he won the National Junior Heavyweight Title.

And now he is anxious to get home and get into training for a crack at the National Senior Title and his chance to represent Ireland in international contests. In these ambitions we join his many friends in wishing him “Good Luck”.

On Tuesday, Lt-Col Bagianni was “Dined in” at Zephyr and met personalities of UNFICYP before departing to UK on Wednesday.

Road Safety Corner

Make sure that you are always relaxed at the wheel — but not too relaxed. If you tense up after a near miss or a long spell of driving, particularly at night, pull off the road and have a rest. Most accidents are caused by human error. Most can be avoided if one driver is on the ball. Relax, drive well and stay well.

NEW SLOGAN CANCELLATION

The third slogan in a series of four slogan cancellations for International Year for Human Rights will be put into use on 24 October 1968 and is reproduced below:
