NEW PIO SETTLES IN

Mr Jean Back has arrived in Cyprus to take up his appointment as Principal Information Officer to the United Nations Force in Cyprus. He is no stranger, for, he has already paid us frequent visits during the course of his duties as Director of the United Nations Information Centre in Athens, a post he has held for the past four years.

Mr Back, a French national, who had been a member of the French Delegation to the San Francisco Conference, joined the United Nations in 1946, and since that time his duties have taken him to many parts of the World. He had spent a total of 8 years in New York, nine in Geneva, two in Indonesia, and the Congo before going to Athens.

He is, of course a member of the Secretariat, but he has found no problems in working with the military. As he says: ‘In the United Nations we are all one family, and fit in well together’.

Before joining the United Nations Mr Back was, for six years, an officer in the Free French Air Force, and was an aide on the personal staff of General de Gaulle during both his wartime visits to the United States.

Drainage problems at Black Bridge led to a visit by the Royal Engineer detachment attached to 1 WORCESTERS. The experts did great work with the pneumatic drill, but LGpl l/Cpl Cunnock took the opportunity to use the volunteer labour force close to hand.

EXHIBITION OF HURLING

On the third day of the Festival the main event was a sports meeting which included an exhibition of the Irish national game of Hurling. Two teams from Bonn played before a large attendance, a large number of whom had never before seen the game played. At the end of the game both teams played some fine hurling and the spectators, even those that had nothing of the game kept cheering the teams on until the final whistle.

Hurling which is played between two teams of fifteen players each of whom carries a stick with which to strike the ball on an ancient game played in Scotland, just how old it is can be judged from the fact that the game is specifically mentioned in the Domesday Book of 1086 which is a very old book.

Although anyone watching the game for the first time may have been very dangerous, statisticians prove that it is a lot more than either field, hurling has a very different way of playing the game.

Although all the players are throwing their sticks at the ball, the game is really one of skill and cunning. Each team tries to hit the ball as far as they can without giving it to the other team. The team that gets the highest score wins.
