UNFICYP OFFICER KILLED

At about 1500 hours on Wednesday, 28 October 1964, a Ferret armoured car belonging to the British contingent of UNFICYP on a routine patrol between Limmassol and Nicosia, went off the road some five miles east of Limmassol.

The officer in charge, 2nd Lt Patrick Gordon Smith, aged 22, of Priston, was thrown out of the vehicle and was killed. The driver escaped with only slight injuries.

The armoured car turned over twice and caught fire. The fire ignited the ammunition, but was brought under control by the local fire Brigade. No damage or casualties were caused by the exploding ammunition.

A United Nations spokesman said that the amount of ammunition in the vehicle was not in excess of the normal amount carried in a Ferret armoured car on UNFICYP routine patrols.

GASOIL RELEASED FOR TURKISH CYPRIOI PLOUGHING

With the advent of the autumn ploughing season, the United Nations Force in Cyprus has sought to assist in removing any obstacles to ploughing in areas where difficulties had heretofore been encountered.

Following discussions with the competent authorities of the Republic, the Government of Cyprus has responded to UNFICYP’s appeal and has given its assurance that adequate quantities of gasoil and lubricants will be released for ploughing and sowing and also for irrigation of citrus fruit orchards in the Turkish Cypriot areas throughout the is’and, where certain restrictions have been in effect.

Concerning ploughing owners of tractors are to receive 12 gallons of gasoil for every 20 donums of land to be ploughed. This is the average area ploughed by one tractor in eight hours. Additional quantities of fuel are to be allocated where two ploughings are required, or for sowing.

As an initial step, 6550 gallons of gasoil have been delivered to the Turkish Cypriot villages of Nicosia and Kyrenia districts. The increasing quantities are to be delivered, depending on need, during the next few weeks. Other districts have also received reasonable quantities for this purpose.

Regarding ploughing and sowing in sensitive areas UNFICYP will provide — in consultation with the competent authorities of the Republic — protection to both Greek and Turkish Cypriot farmers wherever requested under similar arrangements to those which were applied for the harvesting of cereals.

For the time being it is nice and sunny up on the mountain. When Winter arrives the Swedish cabin will provide an excellent shelter against wind and snow.

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION GRANT TO UN

The Rockefeller Foundation has made it possible for the United Nations to acquire a five-story building in New York City for use as the seat of a proposed United Nations Research and Training Institute.

The Foundation announced on Friday, 30 October, that a donation of 450,000 dollars to enable the world organisation to acquire a building and leasehold on United Nations Plaza, a few yards from United Nations Headquarters. The donation clears the way for the building to be completed.

SWEDE HOUSE FOR UNFICYP SWEDEN

Up in the Troodos mountains, on the 4,300 feet level, the Swedish contingent has a signals relay station at a place called Tripolis. Overlooking three valleys it provides excellent conditions.

In the Swedish unit the station is commonly known as “Berget”, or “The Mountain”. The station is managed by ten soldiers. They probably keep the “highest position” of all UNFICYP personnel, but the high level also subjects them to wind and rain.

In fact so many weeks a nor’easter will erase the landscape and the “Berget” crew will feel as if they were in Sweden. Very much so as in the last

United Nations Day 1964

The British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Patrick Gordon Walker, declared on October 24, the anniversary of the United Nations, that the policy of the new British Government to continue to give whole-hearted support to the United Nations— "even more than in the past." Mr. Walker said that he wanted one of his very first acts as Foreign Secretary to be to visit the Secretary-General and to stress this support.

The Foreign Secretary spoke on Tuesday evening following a private talk with U Thant before attending a working dinner given by the Secretary-General.

The United Nations Day Committee was on Friday, October 24, informed of a "false announcement" that "illegal declaration of independence in Southern Rhodesia" would bring to an end relationships between her and Britain, would cut off the British aid to the Commonwealth, from most countries.

The Commonwealth was accused of "inflationary policies" that would be "unfairly condemned" and "hostile continental." The Commonwealth was accused of "inflationary policies" that would be "unfairly condemned" and "hostile continental.

On the same day, the Decolonization Committee of the British government announced that it would not attend talks with U Thant before attending a working dinner given by the Secretary-General. A "false announcement" that "illegal declaration of independence in Southern Rhodesia" would bring to an end relationships between her and Britain, would cut off the British aid to the Commonwealth, from most countries.

Affirming that the aim of the British government in Southern Rhodesia was to proceed by peaceful transition, Mr. Patrick Gordon Walker, the British Foreign Secretary, declared on Tuesday evening following a private talk with the Secretary-General that it was "simply unfair to condemn" that "illegal declaration of independence in Southern Rhodesia" would bring to an end relationships between her and Britain, would cut off the British aid to the Commonwealth, from most countries.

SCORPIONS have been committed to the Swedish battalion. One of the evil creatures was found under the pillow of chaplain Father Gerard Hansson. The scorpion, which is a dangerous animal, was killed without getting a chance to bite the chaplain. Gerhard could enjoy a peaceful night.

The Swedish film "Scorpions" is currently being released in Sweden. This film, which was made in collaboration with the Swedish Film Institute, has been acclaimed by critics and audiences alike. It tells the story of a scorpion that escapes from a research institute and becomes involved in a series of dangerous adventures.
