AUSTRIAN NATIONAL DAY

Austrians serving with UNFICYP celebrated their national day last Tuesday. We publish the story of how the date of 26 October was chosen as their National Day. After the second World War Austria was occupied by the four powers France, Great Britain, U.S.S.R. and USA. For ten years the Austrian Government had been making every effort to secure the conclusion of a State Treaty, but although the Foreign Ministers of the four occupying powers had discussed a treaty at no fewer than 300 meetings in London, Moscow, New York and Paris no agreement had been reached.

At the beginning of 1955 the Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov hinted that Russia might be prepared to sign an Austrian State Treaty. A few months later at a solemn ceremony in the Belvedere, Vienna, and amid scenes of popular rejoicing, the Treaty was signed.

On October 25th, well before the expiration of the 90 days period stipulated in the Treaty, the last foreign soldier had departed from AUSTRIA. On the very next day, October 26th, Parliament voted the law stipulating AUSTRIA's permanent neutrality.

"Zum Zwecke der dauernden Behauptung seiner Unabhängigkeit nach ansuzu und zum Zwecke der Unverletzlichkeit seines Gebietes erklärt Österreich aus feinen Stücke seine immerwährende Neutralität. Österreich wird diese mit allen zu Gebote stehenden Mitteln aufrecht erhalten und verteidigen. Österreich wird zur Sicherung dieser Zwecke in aller Zukunft keinen militärischen Bündnissen beitreten und die Errichtung militärischer Stützpunkte fremder Staaten auf seinem Gebiete nicht zulassen."

With a view to preserving an independent foreign policy and the inviolability of her territory, Austria of her own free will hereby declares her permanent neutrality which she is resolved to maintain and defend with all the means at her disposal. To this end, Austria will henceforth refrain from joining any military alliance and will not allow the maintenance by a foreign power of any military bases on her territory.

AUSTRALIAN POLICE MEDAL PARADE

On Friday 15th October, members of the Australian Police Contingent received their UNFICYP medals from the Force Commander at a medal parade in Limassol. The parade was commanded by Superintendent A. Fry. Members of the Gordons and RAF Episkopi pipe bands, with Inspector C. Savage, of Austcypol, playing in their ranks, were present.

The contingent recruits from all states in Australia, its members coming from rural or metropolitan districts. They serve for 18 months and rotate in groups to allow for continuity.

DANISH ARMY CHIEF IN CYPRUS

The Commander-in-Chief of the Royal Danish Army, Lieutenant General O. Blixenkrone-Moeller, accompanied by the Assistant Chief of Staff (G-I), Lieutenant Colonel N. A. Rye Andersen, and Major P. Rask Petersen, last week paid a brief visit to Cyprus as a part of a Near East Tour.

During his stay in Cyprus, the General visited the Danish Contingent serving with UNFICYP and the Danish Civilian Police, and he also had the opportunity to call on senior officials at HQ UNFICYP. General Blixenkrone-Moeller and his party left Cyprus on 25th October to visit Danish UN observers in Syria.

THE BAGPIPES

Bagpipes, the national musical instrument of Scotland, have been around in one form or another since the time of the Egyptian Pharaohs. There have been and are several kinds of bagpipe: the Grecian, the Bavarian, the Basque bombard, the Irish two drone pipe and the Northumbrian pipe; the best known is however the great Highland war pipe, which is the instrument played in the pipe and drum bands of the Scottish Infantry Regiments of the British Army. The Royal Scots Dragoon Guards, Scots Guards, Gorkha and Indian Army Regiments also have pipe bands.

Pipers, unlike other players of martial music, are combatants. The personal pipes of clan chiefs in feudal times in Scotland acted as bodyguards, and Scottish troops were led into battle as late as the battle of Alamein in 1942, and the D Day landing in 1944, by their pipers playing the Regimental charge. Pipers have received many awards for bravery, including the Victoria Cross.

In UNFICYP, the Pipe Band of the 1st Battalion the Gordon Highlanders have had many opportunities to uphold the morale of the soldiers, and also to give much enjoyment both to other members of UNFICYP and to the general public, with many official and semi-private performances all over the island. Most popular, perhaps, have been the Friday evening performances of Regiment being beaten on the Battalion square at Polemidia.

SMOKING AND YOU

24 CIGARETTES A DAY = 1 in 9 CHANCE OF CANCER

The Royal College of Physicians of England published a report in January of this year stating that more than 20,000 males between the ages of 25 — 64 die yearly from the effects of smoking. In other words about 50 people die daily as a direct result of cigarette smoking as compared with 20 a day killed on the roads. The report also said that cigarette smokers are twice as likely to die in middle age than are non-smokers.

In the original report by the Royal College of Physicians in 1962 the link between smoking and lung cancer was brought to notice but few smokers realise that other diseases are now linked with smoking for example, coronary thrombosis, high blood pressure, gastric ulcer, cancer of the bladder, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema. An average cigarette smoker, defined as a 20 a day man, is likely on average to lose 51 years of life compared with a non-smoker.

What is it then that makes a cigarette so enjoyable?

First there is the taste of your favourite brand? The products from burning tobacco contained in the smoke you inhale include Hydrogen Cyanide (a well known poison), ammonia (used for household cleaning purposes), Carbon Monoxide (which helps to starve the blood of oxygen), Butane (which you use to fill that elegant lighter of yours) Phenol (which is a strong disinfectant) and Nicotine (which temporarily stimulates your nervous system to produce the craving for yet another cigarette). There are many others including Benx Pyrene which has been demonstrated to produce cancer in laboratory animals.

Then of course smoking has become a socially acceptable habit and as someone once said "it gives you something to do with your hands".

Finally there is the advertising which appeals to your manliness and virility. Have you noticed how many times an attractive girl appears in cigarette advertisements with the not so subtle hints of a promise?

What can you do to help yourself? The only effective cure is to give up smoking altogether. The earlier the better. Is giving up effective? Following the publication of the original investigation in 1950 a large number of doctors stopped smoking. The death rate for lung cancer in doctors by 1965 had dropped by 38%. The death rate for lung cancer in all men in 1965 had increased by 7%!

Supposing that you are too firmly wedded to the habit of smoking is there anything you can do to minimise the effects? The following points help reduce the risk.

1. Smoke fewer cigarettes or cigars, or a lesser amount of tobacco,
2. Inhale less.

FAREWELL - AFTER 13 YEARS WITH UNIFICYP

Between the two of them Major Sten Wittboldt and Captain Herbie Weiss have served with UNIFICYP for a total of 13 years.

Major Wittboldt arrived on the island in April 1966 as second in command of No. 1 Company of the Swedish battalion at Famagusta. In the same year he was transferred to the Logistics A section of the Personnel and Logistics Branch at HQ UNIFICYP. Major Wittboldt leaves at the end of this month. He said he was returning home to attend to his garden which had become somewhat overgrown during the past five and a half years.

Captain Weiss returned to Austria last week for some leave. He later takes over command of the Police Training School at Salzburg. Captain Weiss arrived in Cyprus on the 14th of April 1964 as Duty Officer with the Austrian Police Contingent who were the first civilian police detachment to be posted to the island. He then became the liaison officer between the Swedish, Danish and Austrian police detachments. In May 1964 he took up the post of Police Operations Officer at HQ UNIFICYP. Which he has held since then.

We thank them both for their stalwart service to UNIFICYP and wish them the very best for the future.

FAREWELL - AFTER 13 YEARS WITH UNIFICYP

3. Smoke less of each cigarette or cigar. As the length of the cigarette diminishes so the products of combustion become more concentrated and hotter. It is the lasts one third of the cigarette that is most dangerous.
4. Take fewer puffs from each cigarette smoked.
5. Remove the cigarette from the mouth between each puff.
6. Smoke brands with low nicotine content.

Now. Having read this article are you man enough to give it up!
