SECRETARY-GENERAL APPOINTS NEW SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE IN CYPRUS

The Secretary-General informed the Security Council on 25 September that he has designated Ambassador Carlos Alfredo Bernardes of Brazil as his Special Representative in Cyprus to replace Senator Galo Plaza who has taken up his functions as Mediator.

In his statement to the Security Council the Secretary-General added:

"I wish to express my deep gratitude to the Foreign Ministry of Brazil, and through him to his Government, for having responded promptly and favourably to my request for the services of Ambassador Bernardes in this delicate position. Ambassador Bernardes does not need any introduction to the members of the Council, in whose midst he sat until recently. His distinguished record of service is well known in the United Nations. In his capacity as the Permanent Representative of Brazil to the United Nations, which he relinquished a short time ago, he represented Brazil in the Security Council and indeed played an important part in the deliberation of this body at the time when the United Na-

Effect of UNFINCYP (Nicosia Zone HQ)

The exchange of seven hostages from each side agreed upon by President Makarios and Vice President Kutchuk was effected at 2200 hours on Saturday, 29 September, at UNFINCYP Nicosia Zone Headquarters, witnessed by Mr. Max Stalder, Chief Delegate in Cyprus of the International Committee of the Red Cross, and Maj. A. Matheson (Canada) on behalf of UNFINCYP.

The exchange was brought to its conclusion through the good offices of Mr. Stalder and General K. S. Thimayya, UNFINCYP Commandant. Arrangements on the exchange were initiated by Mr. Stalder several weeks ago. The Commander of UNFINCYP personally cooperated in the latter part of the negotiations with President Makarios and Vice President Kutchuk.

Final details were worked out through the good offices of Mr. Max Stalder. After agreement had been reached (at 19.00 hours) on the list of persons to be exchanged, it was agreed that it would be effected at UNFINCYP Nicosia Zone Headquarters under the command of Brigadier A. J. Teddie (Canada).

The Chief Delegate of the International Red Cross personally picked up three of the Greek Cypriot prisoners held at Lefka and took them to UNFINCYP Nicosia Zone Headquarters. He later picked up the other four prisoners held at the Kyrenia Gate Police Station.

The Chief Superintendent of the Cyprus Police, M. N. Panteleides, brought the seven Turkish Cypriot prisoners held at the Central Prison in Nicosia, as well as a former prisoner who had been released in the morning and who had been refused by both sides, and was also turned over at the same time.

After the exchange was effected, Chief Superintendent Panteleides left with the seven Greek Cypriot now former hostages and the Chief Delegate of the International Red Cross drove the eight Turkish Cypriots to the Kyrenia Gate Police Station.
CROCODILE TEARS

A reader, who was clear-sighted enough to write, has very aptly described the situation in the following two letters which he sent to The Datschman. 23 Jul 64.

CYPRESSOPE

THE BLUE BERET

WITH the extension of the Cypriot rebellion it is probably an opportune moment to take a look at the position of the United Nations Peacekeeping Force in Cyprus.

The policy of the UNFICYP, its own newspaper, was clearly stated in its second Edition. No. 1, published on Monday, 20 April, and read.

"Our intention is to publish information about the Cypriots and their specific problems."

We described the Blue Beret as a "weekly of the Force, for the Force, by the Force." We wished to remind our readers that it is you who are the Force, that it is your actions and achievements that will make the Peacekeeping Forces of the United Nations successful and popular by sending your letters, reports, photographs and articles. We repeat the words of the Force Commander, General Thomayou, in his message to you all in the Blue Beret of 21 July, 1964: "We do welcome your views and suggestions; we are not interested in what happens within this Force and remain greatly interested in what contributions the 'Blue Beret' can make to your goals."

We thank all who have contributed in the past to the Blue Beret and we look forward with confidence to the cooperation between readers and the Force.

SNIPETS

Dear Editor,

I find that your newspapers carry the usual 'invitation to write' - far better than previous UN efforts at cooperation over the Congo days was an improvement over the South African days, but it lacked the personal warmth of the letters of the Editor, accounts of the United Nations, having spoken by telephone, and found that I am an excellent medium and one to whom you may write every Saturday morning.

"Ach, ja!" cried the old lady, "I will go to bed with a lion for one of the night watchmen."

Little Tommy was given a threepence to get the postman to come to his house, however, the threepence was all in his pocket.

"Well you are a naughty boy, aren't you?" the threepence was for the collection.

"You don't have to do that,Your Honor," said Tommy

"Yes, I think you'd better go to bed with a lion for one of the night watchmen."

"Not me," he said, "I've got to do that, I'm not going to."

"There's nothing to be worried about," said the judge, "You won't hurt yourself, you'll just have to go out of your house and look at the lion."

"So was I," said Tommy, "but I eat too much."

FINANCING

PEACE OPERATIONS

THE general issue of how to finance peacekeeping operations has received a great deal of discussion in the Special 21 Nation Working Group of the UNFICYP.

The Soviet Union this week rejected the United States suggestion of a Standing Finance Com- mission for peacekeeping operations in order of appointment. The United States would have been included Permanent Members of the Security Council and a relatively high proportion of these members in each geographic region. The Joint Financial Commission could have decided which large financial contributors to the United Nations could be included in the Standing Finance Commission.

The United States suggested as usages as a means of reducing the financial burden of the United Nations, the Soviet Union said that the Standing Finance Commission could have been included in the UNFICYP, which has extensive responsibility for financing for the Peacekeeping Force.

 Francis Flinton of the United States replied that the Council, had primary, but minor, responsibilities with regard to financing of the United Nations Peacekeeping Force. The United States suggested to alter the present arrangement of the UNFICYP in order to keep the present independence of the UNFICYP. The Standing Committee, said Flinton, was to give the USA and other states greater say on Financing than now, but the Standing Committee was left to the Assembly.

RENOUNCE

USE OF FORCE

THE Soviet Union rejected this week that the forthcoming UNFICYP assembly give special attention to the question of renunciation of the use of force as a means of resolving territorial disputes and border issues. The Soviet Union has included in the present resolution of the General Assembly, that an international agreement excluding use of force in disputes that would make it much easier to achieve a solution of the basic problems that are now confronting the world. The British, the United Nations and the other states that have the responsibility of providing a UNFICYP force, have completed a series of agreements that are now in their second draft at the United Nations.

BULGARIAN

THE British position, as set forth in the previous debate, is that the United Kingdom has excluded unconditional severance of relations over Bulgaria-Crown Colony for two centuries and a half. The 25,000 inhabitants enjoy a very large measure of self-government, and have made it clear that they wish to continue their independence. The British, the United Nations and the other states that have the responsibility of providing a UNFICYP force, have completed a series of agreements that are now in their second draft at the United Nations.

SOLDIERS ARRESTED

United Nations armed cars were seized by two miles west of Xerou in the area of the National Guard camp, and two members of the National Guard were arrested on suspicion of illicit carriage of arms.

The UNFICYP Command, General Thimayou, the United Nations, this week, the two echelons, carried out at his direction, revealed that a man had been arrested in the number of arms and as a thousand of cigarettes.

The high number of cigarettes is considered to be suspicious.

The officers and men in the United Nations headquarters are members of the Swedish contingent of UNFICYP. The United Nations, Sweden in addition, to the United States, has sent a contingent of the Swedish contingent of UNFICYP.

NELTIC OF THE GODS

Serving & Drinking:

Serving and drinking wine is one of life’s pleasures and a great one as well. Through the centuries, by trial and error, rules about serving and drinking wines have been formulated to help enjoy the most from a bottle. Personal preference is more important, however, than any of the rules. If you inhibit your enjoyment of wines by following rules, you might as well not have any. As you learn about wines, by tasting them with your own palate, you will invent your own guides. No one can suggest the most pleasing combinations of food and drink and how you should avoid unpleasant surprises.

Wine and food go together. The one bringing out the best of the other. A meal consists of two or three courses, or there may be 2 or 3 different wines, to be served. Serve wine first for it acts as an alkalizer. Flow the wine used to taste the best wine of better than anything else.

Food and wine are planned in an according of quality. If more than one course is served, the finest wine is served first, the second course served, etc. Wine is served with the first course, except in his glass, until the second course is served, and drinks with the third course. As part of the previous wine, by the second wine is served against the preceding course, and so on.

Many wine lovers are partial to wine with a pronounced character and usually everything else, as well as not being or a dried cherry or cherry flavor, as it is terroir. Where wines are served, rules are written in stone. Wine is poured into a white, with red wines tending to be red, and that great wines taste better, when they are poured from a white wine bottle.

White Wines should be served chilled, and they are the cooler, not chilled, but just enough to be refreshing, and not too cold. The almost all white wines are served.

Statistis:

Cyprus produces approximately 400,000 - 1,000,000 bottles of wine per year. It is estimated that there are 30% of the world’s total production of wine. A large portion of this production is from Pinot Noir, which is used in the production of sparkling wines.

CALLING ALL DRIVERS:

EYES ARE A HAZARD AT NIGHT

Failure of many drivers to recognize the fact that the darkness of the night is a potential hazard could be a reason why the number of fatal road accidents increases. The season:

Drivers have been advised to slow down and be careful at night. They should be aware of the risks associated with night driving, including the reduced reaction time and reduced visibility.

VEGETABLES:

Vegetables are an important part of the human diet. They provide essential nutrients and fiber, which are important for maintaining good health. A variety of vegetables should be eaten regularly to ensure a balanced diet. Some common vegetables include:

- Tomatoes
- Carrots
- Broccoli
- Spinach
- Cauliflower
- Bell peppers
- Cucumbers
- Onions
- Mushrooms

Fruit:

Fruit is another important part of a healthy diet. It provides vitamins, minerals, and dietary fiber. Some common fruits include:

- Apples
- Bananas
- Oranges
- Berries
- Pineapples
- Mangoes
- Grapes
- Peaches
- Strawberries

In conclusion, vegetables and fruit play a vital role in maintaining good health. Eating a variety of these foods regularly can help ensure that you are getting the nutrients your body needs.

NEWS FROM SPRINGBOKS

The squadron’s menagerie was a mixture of sheep, goats, and three-year-olds. The pigs were offered to the gods of Minotaur, Apollo, and Dionysus doing the holy duty of the body. The herd was assisted in the bloody deed by the herdsman. A young man named Desdemona, the son of one of the build-up of the Trojan Horse, was nowhere in Spain. All the wine was for nothing though, as the gods had been found. All men had been killed, but not for human consumption.

At the end of the day, the pigs were used to build a suitable site to build a temple. The Teutrocs ruled thereby and under them the town increasingly prepared and, for the most part, maintained its independence, though subject in the early period to the Myceneans and Persian rule.

Counsels and off shore strong men visited the island at the time of the Athenian General Kimon in the battle of Salamis, the Persians, the city under its first period of repression and commercial decline.

There was a special care for the care of the territory, and the most famous of all the rulers of Salamis was Demetrios.

The most famous son of Salamis was Jason, who was the captain of the argonauts.

VENETIAN RULE (1465-1797)

In the comparative short period that Cyprus was under Venetian rule, the island suffered considerable commercial decline.

Everything was reasonable to prepare the defences against the threatening Turkish invasion. Paphos was surrounded with a vast defensive wall, while at Limassol the city was defended against the incursions of the whole of the Venetian community.

A severe earthquake again shook the city in 322 B.C., caused by the Venetians who erected a vast tidal wave. After this the city became the capital of the island under the rule of Cypriote, under the rule of Cypriote.

The long expected Turkish attack came in July 1570 when the Turks, under the order of Sultan Lala Mustapha Pasha, invaded Larnaca and marched on Cyprus, which took back a two-month siege. In the following year they attacked Famagusta in January again.

The defence of Famagusta was carried out with great heroism by the Venetians of Bragadino. But after a siege of nine months, the Venetians were forced to surrender.

The surrender was arranged on honourable terms, but these were broken by Lala Mustapha Pasha on the excuse that some hostages had been put to death during the negotiations. All the Venetian officers were cut to pieces in the practice of Lala Mustapha Pasha for a fortnight's torture before their execution.

With the fall of Famagusta, all resistance came to an end and Cyprus passed under Turkish rule.
