RED CRESCENT VESSEL ARRIVES AT FAMAGUSTA WITH RELIEF SUPPLIES FOR TURKISH CYPRIOITS

The 300-ton Turkish Red Crescent vessel, PEK, with 750 tons of food and other supplies destined for Turkish Cypriot communities arrived at 1100 hours on 3 December at Famagusta.

The arrival of the ship follows the favourable response of the President of the Republic, in his letter of 12 November, to an appeal which was made by UNFICYP to allow entry of a Red Crescent shipment of relief supplies for Turkish Cypriot refugees. Import duties which would have been normally charged on the shipment were waived, as an exception, by the President.

Arrival of the ship and its unloading — which was completed by 4 December — had been supervised by UNFICYP officials and members of the 41 Infantry Battalion of the Irish contingent with the United Nations Force in Cyprus.

After unloading was completed, the bulk supplies were placed in a warehouse in Famagusta under UNFICYP supervision. These supplies will be later transported or escorted and distributed, under UNFICYP supervision, to Turkish Cypriot communities as required.

Of the total 750 tons, 650 tons are food supplies. The other 100 tons consist of clothing, shoes, blankets, tent material and other items, for which UNFICYP arranged entry with the Government.

Also included in the total are 400 tents and additional items of clothing and medicines which the Government agreed with the International Committee of the Red Cross to add to the original list of Red Crescent supplies.

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

A United Nations spokesman announced on Friday, 4 December, that the Secretary-General, U Thant, had, upon the advice of his doctor, been taken to hospital for a complete check-up.

The Secretary-General, he said, is suffering from a cold, fatigue and overwork.

CANADIANS BUILD SAUNA

Having heard so much of the benefits to be gained from a "Sauna" bath, and no doubt influenced by their near neighbours 5 Company YKSP, 1 Company of the Royal Canadian Guards have now built their "very own Sauna" at Trakonas in Nicosia. Rumour has it that the Recce Squadron, Lord Strathcona's Horse, will also soon have one completed.

The following statement was made by a Finnish Captain on being informed of the above:

"It only goes to show how excellent our institution is. The Sauna is not only to wash oneself thoroughly, but is also a good stimulant from the mental point of view."

(Editor's comment: "I could do with some 'stimulation' myself".)

RE-DEPLOYMENT OF UNITED NATIONS FORCE IN CYPRUS

The re-deployment of the Irish and Swedish contingents of the United Nations Force in Cyprus, announced by Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Force Commander, on 26 November, commenced on Monday, 7 December. The operation will be completed on Wednesday, 9 December.

With effect from Thursday, 10 December, the two contingents will be located as follows:

- 28 Swedish Battalion: FAMAGUSTA Zone
- 28 Swedish Battalion & HQ: FAMAGUSTA
- One Company: LARNACA
- 41 Irish Battalion: MORPHOU District
- Battalion Headquarters & Headquarters Company: SKOURIOTISSA
- One Company: KATO PYRGOS
- One Company: LEFKA
- One Company: LIMNITIS
- 3 Irish Infantry Group: PAPHOS District
- 3 Irish Infantry Group & HQ: KTIMA
- One Company: POLIS

As on previous occasions British elements of the Royal Army Service Corps will provide transport to assist the move of the 41 Infantry Battalion and 3 Infantry Group of the Irish Contingent UNFICYP to their new locations.

FINLAND CELEBRATES HER INDEPENDENCE AND NEUTRALITY

FINNISH INDEPENDENCE DAY was celebrated on December 6. Our correspondent from the Finnish Contin- gent, Capt. V. Kaukonen, has prepared the following ar- ticle on the subject.

The foreign policy of a small state can only have one purpose: the preservation of its independence and security.

In the 150 years during which Finland has been a na- tion, the Finns have tried in many ways to protect their right of self-determination and their identity. But all the time the attempt to keep out of the conflicts of great powers has occupied a considerable portion of their foreign policy.

The experiences of the Second World War have, above all, shown the great importance of maintaining a policy of neutrality. In the years immediately preceding the war, Finland's neutrality, which was in danger of being destroyed, was inseparably linked with the trend of the Nordic countries.

The line of neutrality in the Nordic countries was a severe set-back in the autumn of 1939. The North had not been deluded from the calcula- tions of military leaders - a basic reason which led to the conflict was the profound trust prevailing at that time between Finland and the Soviet Union. The leaders of the Soviet Union had expressed their willingness to guarantee Finland's neutrality in the Finnish govern- ment's ability to guarantee it or not, nor was it forced to do so. The desire for the 1939 truce is still unmet.

During the Winter War, the alliance with the Soviet Union, the expedition to the Finnish front, and the invasion of the North were, however, accepted, but it was that neutrality in the face of the terms of the So- viet Union of the 1939 war was not as it seemed.

SEPARATE WAR

Finland tried instead to maintain the same basic attitude even when the German-Soviet pact was signed, and the Soviet Union in the summer of 1941 made use of that pact as a base for requisition of a large area of territory from Finland.

According to the official Fin- nish statement, the official act of aggression was called a "peace war." Finland refused to take part in any military operations like the act of aggression. The Second World War, as the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom had hoped, remained outside the conflict between the two countries, but the conflict was not resolved.

The treaty concluded with the two countries in 1940, and this treaty together with the peace treaty form the fundamental documents of Finnish neutrality.

The treaty was signed on October 10, 1940. The treaty agreement was reached without the consent of Finland's government or the Finnish people, in whose opinion the treaty is not a function of its foreign policy. Finland was concerned was primarily strategic. (Capt I.C. DOUGLAS — Transport Officer)

WELL the Grey Cup has come and gone. We think the West won 34: 24 just as the Sates would have it, but it was in a very good condition. It was received from the broadcast on Saturday night. We were not too dismayed, however, as we had our own version of the classic football on Saturday afternoon.

The officers team, outstanding, will do its work and its duties (led by the Padre) if we are assured that the entire eastern contingent will do its work. Some of the officers are proving very powerful in our own air arm of the officers. Some of the story of the game went: For the victors — "Cuddles," "Bosh," "Mugham," "Grayson," "Hicks," CLASH-DATEs, "Twinkle Toes" HOPEs, all led by "Doomsday" DOYON — oops! Sorry! He was supposed to be a "oram" and ignition losses — "Speedy" SMITH and "Tubby" TERRY — on strike from "Drum" the QB.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

1 CHESHIRE — 40 Big Biggins (RAF AKROTTI)

1 CHESHIRE fielded a weak team on the last day of the European Campaign. AKROTTI on Sunday, 20 November, over the Cheshires, the team being rather small in number. Losing the toss, the Cheshires kicked off in warm sunshine. For the first 20 minutes they played second fiddle to the RAF side and the inevitable goal came after 50 minutes and seemed to be a little unexpected source. The right back, PRINCE (A Croy), passed to big GAVIN, who was rather high ball and the Cheshires found themselves good.

This however seemed to inspire 1 Cheshire to greater efforts and just before half-time CAI O’MALLEY back with a second. The equaliser followed at one goal by the Cheshires team playing downhill. The boys were too much on top playing on the first half, but the play but finishing splint aren’t even good football. The game was over, however, and towards the end of the Cheshires, whizzed wide the head of Cail BUCKLEY who whipped the ball in the net. A good move by Derys BENNET and LAMBE, who helped the Cheshires scoring the third goal which gave 1 Cheshire victory by 3 goals to 1.

DADDY: "Glenfiddich has finally finished its run, the crowds not now strung, the wire strong and all the valley through. Returning to the sports scene briefly, our volleyball team though very willing, is not doing so well in the Inter-Continent league. To be quite frank we are not won a game yet. The team will wait until the new year — we'll plan for it in the new year.

Plains are underway for the Christmas festivities but more about that at a later date — until then from Camp Tregidgin "KALANICIA."

31 INFANTRY BATTALION REPORTS

FARE THEE WELL, FAMAGUSTA

A S IS now well known the Irish and the Swedish troops are exchanging areas. The 41 Battalion is now preparing to move into the Morphou District with Headquarters in a little place called Nicosia. We are reliably informed that this place would re- move one of Avoca, our well known beauty spot in Co. Wicklow.

The Battalion Engineer Officer, Comdr John Combe has been delayed with demands for uses of skis and alpines, etc, so our men teams can come back those times from the West Coast with all tales of tall hills covered with snow. Instead of "go more, rear of us" we shall now hear the command "Ski!" Our "B" Company is being reinforced by a platoon of troops from the "A" Company in Larnaca, and a herd of mules from another section. The men on the "Ski Poles" have to be fed somehow.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

Strange noises emanating from the streets — generally during duty hours admittedly, and large voices in Wolfs Tone Camp have had variously been interpreted. The 41 Battalion Choir under the leadership of the Rev. Duggan has been heard at bit. And it is hard to believe we have acquired a definite polish on style and the choir has been seen in various places like in the Town Centre and City of the North, the right to take to public service.

Articles 22 to 27 cover economic, social and cultural freedom, the right to a fair trial and public hearing by an independent and impartial tribunal; the right to be presumed innocent until proved guilty; freedom from arbitrary arrest, detention and torture; freedom from arbitrary interference with privacy, home, family, home correspondence; freedom of movement; the right to own property, freedom of thought, conscience and religion, freedom of opinion and expression; the right to freedom of association and collective bargaining; the right to take part in government, and the right to equal treatment.

The concluding articles, Articles 28 to 30, deal with the rights guaranteed to all. Article 28 is entitled to a social and inter- national order in which the rights and freedoms may be fully realized. It speaks of civil and political rights and duties and responsibilities which (Continued on Page 8)

HUMAN RIGHTS

One of the purposes of the United Nations proclaimed under Article 1 of the Charter is to achieve international cooperation in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion.

On December 10, 1948, the General Assembly adopted the Universal Declaration of Human Rights by which for the first time in history, responsibility for the protection and pursuance of human rights was assured by the international community and was accepted as a permanent obligation. The Universal Declaration was the first of thirty articles covering human rights, including civil and political rights, economic, social and cultural rights.

Articles 1 and 2 are general articles. Article 3 states that all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. Article 4 states that all are entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this declaration without distinction of any kind as to race, colour, language, religion, political or social affiliation, national or social origin, property, birth or other status. The right to charity, and other recognized rights, are included in articles 3 to 29. The Declaration includes: the right to life, liberty and security of person; freedom from torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment; the right to recognition as a person before the law; the right to equality before the law; the right to effective remedy; freedom from arbitrary arrest, detention and torture; freedom from arbitrary interference with privacy, home, family, home correspondence; freedom of movement; the right to own property; freedom of thought, conscience and religion; freedom of opinion and expression; the right to freedom of association and collective bargaining; the right to take part in government, and the right to equal treatment.
The Assembly proclaimed the Universal Declaration of Human Rights as "a common standard of achievement for all peoples and all nations," and called upon all member states and all peoples to promote and secure the effective recognition and observance of the rights and freedoms set forth therein. Following a resolution to this effect adopted by the General Assembly on December 4, 1950, December 10 is celebrated as Human Rights Day all over the world.

To give legal force to the Declaration, the Commission on Human Rights has drafted two international Covenants on Human Rights which are being considered by the General Assembly. One relates to civil and political rights and the other to economic, social and cultural rights. The Covenants, when ratified by governments will have the legal force of treaties for those governments.

Attention is also being given by the United Nations to other problems in this field, such as the improvement of the status of women, the rights of the child, the prevention of discrimination and the freedom of information.

An international Convention on the Political Rights of Women came into force in April 1954 and thirty-nine states had ratified or acceded to it by January 1964. In 1962 the General Assembly also adopted and opened for signature a Convention on Consent to Marriage, Minimum Age for Marriage and Registration of Marriages.

In November 1959 a Declaration on the Rights of the Child, in which it was affirmed that mankind owed to the child the best that it had to give, was adopted unanimously. The prevention of discrimination is an important aspect of human rights and in November 1963 the General Assembly unanimously adopted a Declaration on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination.

Freedom of information is the subject of a convention on the international right of correction designed to combat the dissemination of false or distorted reports likely to injure friendly relations between states. This convention came into force on August 24, 1962. A number of studies and the provision of technical aid in cooperation with the specialized agencies are other aspects of activity in this field.
